"This book is a refreshing look at those who have dared to do something different with their lives."

From the Foreword by Clint Eastwood

What does it take to follow your dreams, to fulfill your life's purpose?

The book StarWords highlights 62 extraordinary people who are known nationally or internationally, and have chosen to live in the world-renowned Eden called the Monterey Peninsula. They include such household names as Clint and Dina Eastwood, Reggie Jackson, Riane Eisler and Betty White. Others have made their fame in the fields of comedy, aviation, business, spiritual healing, invention, or literature. Their stories reveal the inspiration, frustration, rejection and eventual realization of their passionate dreams.

Some live in gated estates and fly private jets, while others live in humble abodes. Many are so intelligent that our conversations seemed to take place in a Rand think tank. Whatever their differences, they are all deeply satisfied doing the work they love.

Read their stories and find inspiration to follow your own muse . . .
